Renée Anderson announced as new TasNetworks Chief Executive Officer

Following an extensive national search the Chair of TasNetworks, Mr Roger Gill, today announced the appointment of Renée Anderson as the new Chief Executive Officer.

Mr Gill said this is an important role at an important time for Tasmania, and Ms Anderson brings a proven record in leading strong and capable teams.

"TasNetworks has a critical role to play in keeping Tasmanians connected today while building the network for the future, and we're pleased to confirm Renée in this role," said Mr Gill.

"Renée will lead TasNetworks through an important period of investment, including major transmission developments that will strengthen Tasmania's energy future. She has the full support of the TasNetworks Board behind her."

Since joining TasNetworks in 2021, Renée has held executive responsibility for people, safety, environment, community, and stakeholder engagement. She was appointed Interim Chief Executive Officer in June 2026 upon the departure of previous CEO Seán Mc Goldrick.

Renée is Chair of the Australian Power Institute, a Director of 42-24, and a Graduate of the Australian Institute of Company Directors.

Ms Anderson embraces the opportunity to lead the organisation and acknowledges the trust and confidence the Board has in her appointment as Chief Executive Officer.

"Leading TasNetworks means leading an organisation that touches the lives of every Tasmanian. Our people keep the lights on, respond when storms hit, and deliver infrastructure needed for Tasmania's energy future."

"The Executive team and I are committed to TasNetworks being a place where our people feel safe, valued and connected, and we'll continue to invest in the culture and environment that makes that possible."

Minister for Energy and Renewables, Nick Duigan, congratulated Ms Anderson on her appointment.

"I look forward to working with Ms Anderson as she leads TasNetworks through an important period for the business and Tasmania's energy future."
